Rebels Might Let Passengers Off Tomorrow

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—Capt. Henrique Galvao said today he is ready and anxious to land the passengers of the hijacked liner Santa Maria in Recife tomorrow.

The leader of the rebel band aboard the seized Portuguese liner so advised reporters and U.S. naval officers aboard a plane circling the liner off this Brazilian port.

Galvao said he hopes to facilitate the transfer of the approximate 600 passengers so that they may continue their journey—after a detour of eight days and 2,800 miles.

Janio Quadros, who becomes president of Brazil at noon tomorrow, has given Galvao an assurance that as an old friend he can find a haven in Brazil. Quadros also indicated he would not move to seize the liner for Portuguese owners, as the outgoing administration of President Juscelino Kubitschek has threatened.

Further reassurance was radioed to Galvao today by Gov. Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara State—Rio de Janeiro, Lacerda, a Quadros associate, said he had discussed the situation with the incoming foreign and navy ministers. He told Galvao:

"President Janio has declared to the press that he will assure disembarkation of passengers, political asylum for you and your companions, as well as to maintain you in command of the ship Santa Maria."

A U.S. admiral arranged to meet Galvao aboard the Santa Maria at daybreak Tuesday. Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr., U.S. Navy commander in the Caribbean, said Galvao proposed the meeting and he quickly accepted.

NFO Endorses Bill Up in Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri board of the National Farmers Organization voted Sunday to endorse the Agricultural Extension Service bill pending in the Missouri Legislature.

The action, to back up the farm research measure, was taken at a session held in connection with a joint meeting with representatives of the Missouri State Agricultural Extension Service.

The board also endorsed Senate Bill 45 which would assure perpetuation of Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives. It would expand REA powers, including continuation of service in areas annexed by a municipality and protect the cooperatives from encroachment by private or municipal utilities.

Amusing Comedy Set Off By Ship Search

By DREW PEARSON

The alleged search for the Portuguese pirate ship Santa Maria set off the amusing comedy of camouflage seen in the Pentagon in months.

Actually the Navy knew where the ship was all the time, but announced it couldn't find it, partly so the State Department wouldn't have to decide whether to seize it. Meanwhile the admirals were getting all sorts of ribbing inside the joint chiefs of staff over their inability to find a relatively slow and easy-to-spot passenger vessel.

At first Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, accused Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, of being unable to find the Santa Maria.

"Or maybe you're deliberately not finding it in order to prove that a task force can't be found at sea," kidded General Lemnitzer, referring to the admirals' contention that airplane carriers and their accompanying task forces can't be located by enemy bombers.

This is one of the hottest arguments inside the joint chiefs of staff, the Air Force and the Army claiming that carriers can be easily located, therefore are a waste of money. The Navy argues otherwise.

General Lemnitzer knew, of

In the Congo

Charge Belgians With Aggression

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

—The Soviet Union today charged the Belgian government with new acts of aggression in the Congo, including formation of a foreign legion to fight against forces loyal to deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba and his pro-Communist deputy, Antoine Gizenga.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, in a letter to the president of the Security Council, also charged Belgian "colonists" bombed several Congolese towns controlled by Lumumba's forces and caused numerous casualties.

Zorin's letter, apparently delivered over the weekend, was a prelude to a Security Council meeting on the Congo scheduled for Wednesday.

Seven pro-Lumumba governments have asked the council to protest the imprisonment of Lumumba. Congo President Joseph Kasavubu has demanded that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld replace Rajeswar Dayal of India as the chief U.N. representative in the Congo. Hammarskjöld has warned that plans of pro-Lumumba governments to withdraw their troops from the U.N. force in the Congo may force the United Nations to pull out of the chaotic country entirely.

Reports from the Congo in the past few weeks have told of the arrival in Katanga Province of foreign fighting men to serve as mercenaries for provincial President Moïse Tshombe. Recruitment apparently was stepped up as a result of the invasion of the northern part of the province by pro-Lumumba troops who established a headquarters in Manono, a tin-mining center.

Vincent W. Kulage Jr., 23, St. Louis, was killed accidentally by his companion while hunting rabbits eight miles northwest of Sweet Springs Sunday.

Dale Smith, 22, St. Louis, told officers he and Kulage both swung around to fire at a rabbit at the same time and Smith's bullet hit Kulage in the head.

The body was taken to the Mossy Funeral Home in Sweet Springs, then transferred to the St. Ann Funeral Home in St. Louis Monday. Smith was taken to the Community Hospital in Sweet Springs, where he was treated for shock.

Kulage is survived by his wife, Dorothy, and his parents.

To stimulate housing and construction.

To raise the minimum wage and extend its coverage.

To offer tax incentives for plant investment.

Late Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The initial Republican reactions in Congress to President Kennedy's State of the Union message today were mild praise and expressions of deep resentment at the dark picture he painted of the nation's economy.

Democrats, as expected, were high in their praise of the address, using such words as challenging, inspiring, remarkable.

In JFK's Plans

Polaris Missile Speedup Easiest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Of President Kennedy's three "prompt action" orders to the military today, the one for speeding up Polaris missile submarine production may be the easiest to carry out.

Top naval officials believe that even with existing building facilities, the rate of Polaris sub production could be more than doubled.

His State of the Union message request for accelerating the "whole ballistic missile program could present more difficulties. His demand that duplication in the missile program be reduced could compel sharp changes in production programs, elimination of some weapons and steps in others.

Kennedy said the system for speeding fighting men to any spot on the globe at a moment's notice to cope with threat of limited war requires more air-lift capacity—without delay. If more long-range transport planes are to be acquired quickly, they must be bought "off-the-shelf," he added. There wouldn't be time to design and build entirely new ones.

The President wants equally swift action from the strategy makers. By the end of February—a month from now—he expects McNamara to submit a preliminary report on the precise state of the nation's defense strategy.

This includes: "Our ability to fulfill our commitments—the effectiveness, vulnerability and dispersal of our strategic bases, forces and warning systems—the efficiency and economy of our operation and organization—the elimination of obsolete bases and installations—and the adequacy, modernization and mobility of our present conventional and nuclear forces and weapons systems in the light of present and future dangers."

Kennedy sketched in general terms a program for dealing with this matter, saying his administration "does not intend to stand helplessly by." He promised to detail the program in special messages to Congress during the next two weeks. The remedies he outlined broadly are largely those he advocated during the presidential campaign.

The President said that barring development of urgent national defense needs or a worsening of the economy, proposals he advances in all fields "will not of and by themselves unbalance the budget" he inherited from the Eisenhower regime. It calls for outlay of $80.9 billion and a surplus of $1.4 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1.

However, Kennedy made it plain he is not blindly wedded to the idea of a balanced budget. "We will do," he said, "what needs to be done. For our national household is cluttered with unfinished and neglected tasks."

JFK Orders Defense Hike

To Meet Any Problem At Any Spot on the Globe

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, solemnly calling this a time of national emergency with the Communist tide running dangerously against America, today announced he has ordered swift bolstering of U.S. military defenses.

In his first State of the Union message, the President said the orders provide for an immediate speed-up in Polaris submarine construction and in development and production of missiles, and for prompt increase in air-lift capacity to deal with "any problem at any spot on the globe at any moment's notice."

But in his address to Congress and the country, Kennedy also pledged his administration to exploration of "all possible areas of cooperation with the Soviet Union and other nations" to invoke the wonders of nuclear and space science instead of the terrors.

He specifically invited the Soviet Union to join with the United States now in a science space program "which some day may unlock the deepest secrets of the universe."

Kennedy, speaking before a joint session of the House and Senate and to a nationwide television and radio audience, said that despite the current urgent need for greater military might until tensions ease, arms control and disarmament will be "a central goal of our national policy." He called for new efforts to end the arms race.

Meanwhile, he said: "The tide is unfavorable. Life in 1961 will not be easy. There will be further setbacks before the tide is turned. But turn it must. The hopes of all mankind rest upon us."

The youthful President dealt mostly with the world situation, which he painted in somber tones.

There also was a note of graveness in what he had to say about the home front.

"In short," he declared, "the American economy is in trouble."

He said that for the last seven months business has been in the throes of recession. He said further that there have been "three and half years of slack, seven years of diminished economic growth, and nine years of falling farm income."

Kennedy sketched in general terms a program for dealing with this matter, saying his administration "does not intend to stand helplessly by." He promised to detail the program in special messages to Congress during the next two weeks. The remedies he outlined broadly are largely those he advocated during the presidential campaign.

US Builds Up Arsenal Of Weapons

Starts Relegating Obsolescent Models Into Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has built up such an arsenal of new and improved nuclear weapons that it has started relegating obsolescent models to retirement, the Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today.

The AEC said the nation's present nuclear weapons strength offers a "powerful deterrent—both in numbers and variety—against aggression."

But the AEC added this alert to its annual report to Congress. Further dramatic advances in weapons are possible through further nuclear testing, and therefore a threat to the free world is "implicit in a continued unpooled moratorium on weapons testing."

The commission indicated its belief in the possibility that the Soviet Union may have been conducting underground sneak tests of weapons during the current moratorium, in effect since 1958.

"This commission is full in accord," said the report, "with the national policy of attaining cessation of nuclear weapons tests under a treaty that would establish international controls adequate to assure compliance with its provisions."

"The commission, however, also feels a strong sense of responsibility to point out the risks to free world supremacy in nuclear weapons—and the resultant threat to the free world—that are implicit in a continued unpooled moratorium on weapons testing."

The AEC added: "Nuclear weapons development is not a static science. Important advances in weapons design are possible—advances which would have great military significance. They could include improvements in many fields, such as new 'battlefield' weapons and improvements of the weight-to-yield ratio of a variety of bombs and warheads. Our weapons scientists are convinced that further nuclear testing would achieve major advances in weapons design."

"It is technically possible at present to conduct nuclear tests underground in a clandestine manner, with little or no possibility of detection and identification."

Otterville Man Dies in Crash Sunday Morning

A young Otterville man died early Sunday morning when his 1951 Chevrolet sedan left the road on Route B in Cooper County and struck a steel culvert.

Dead is Donald Dean Stamberger, 24, who resided three miles east of Otterville with his father.

According to information from Troop F, State Highway Patrol headquarters in Jefferson City, Stamberger's car left the road 1.6 miles south of Route KK on B. near Lone Elm store at 3 a.m. Sunday. Lone Elm is about 12 miles south of Booneville.

The vehicle went into the ditch on the left side of the road and traveled 198 feet before striking the culvert, patrol officials reported.

Funeral services are set for 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Hays-Painter Funeral Home in Otterville. Burial will be in the Otterville Cemetery.

Smart Young Earthling Will Test Brain's Operation in Space Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—A very smart young earthling soon will test whether the brain clicks along normally or goes haywire in space flight.

This earthling will be a chimpanzee, one of man's closest cousins in the department of smartness.

He, or she, will provide the first careful measurements whether mental faculties and reflexes are affected by the weird stress of taking off in a rocket, and floating in space without the familiar sensation of having weight.

On this answer could depend partly the prospects that humans ever can go to the moon or Mars or on jaunts through space.

Animals have ridden up and down in rockets before, and Soviet dogs have even been brought safely home after orbiting completely around the earth.

But none of these was ever before analyzed to learn whether they can think and react normally. This is one of the significant elements in a new test preparing for man in space.

A highly trained chimpanzee is scheduled to ride Tuesday 115 miles up and 290 miles down range into the Atlantic ocean from this famous space port.

Later, if all goes well, one of seven human astronauts is scheduled to take the same type of ride in another step toward human trips orbiting the earth.

The chimpanzee will have jobs to do in his brief ride. Mental processes of the young chimps are closer to those of man than the ape, scientists report. And their reaction time of .7 of a second is close to man's .5 of a second.

Six chimps have trained to flick levers when lights go on or else they get slight electrical shocks through the foot. They have learned to perform almost perfectly in the laboratories.

A key question is whether they can do as well under the oppressive pressure of rocket takeoff and during nearly five minutes time of zero gravity in the arcing ride.

Cameras and electrodes will re-

6 Americans Could Learn Fate Today

HAVANA (AP) — Six Americans accused of conspiring against Fidel Castro may learn their fate today from a military tribunal that could deport them, keep them in prison or send them to their deaths.

There was speculation the court might emulate Soviet Premier Khrushchev's freeing of two American fliers last week as a gesture toward the new Kennedy administration.

In a 2½ hour trial Saturday the Americans claimed they had come to Havana in a stolen boat early in January, after the United States broke diplomatic relations with Cuba, to help defend Castro's revolution.

The prosecutor scoffed at the Americans' explanation and charged they were bringing arms to rebel guerrillas fighting Castro. He asked for death by firing squad.

Although Castro has repeatedly called for the sternest treatment of those trying to overthrow him, defense attorney Luis Raul Fleitas cited the prime minister's less angry attitude toward the new U.S. administration and Premier Khrushchev's release of the two American reconnaissance fliers. Fleitas said these were samples of "good faith" the court should follow.

The army court had a precedent for deporting the six men, Alan Robert Nye, an ex-Navy pilot was expelled after a death sentence against him was suspended in April 1969. Nye claimed he had come to Cuba to join the Castro revolution but was convicted of plotting against Castro's life.

The six Americans are George R. Beck, 24, of Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, of Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, of Gastonia, N.C.; James E. Bean, 34, of Cedar Falls, N.C.; Alfred Eugene Gibson, 32, of Mount Gilead, N.C., and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, of Chicago.

Informality Reigns In JFK Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is going in for less formality in his White House office—logs burning in the fireplace, flanked by two comfortable sofas, with a coffee table in between.

Kennedy has had the oval presidential office repainted from pale green to off-white and ordered pictures of George Washington and other historical predecessors removed in favor of stirring naval battle scenes.

Reporters got a weekend look at the executive office after Kennedy vetoed the green walls which had just been freshly redone for him in the same color favored by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kennedy has on his desk some bookends left over from Eisenhower. They feature gold eagles mounted on a navy blue base with five gold stars—the insignia of a general of the army. The bookends hold a copy of the Bible, a world Almanac and two books written by Kennedy himself.

On Kennedy's desk are the beginnings of what looks like a comfortable permanent clutter: a coconut shell war memento, a favorite pair of daggers paper weight and an ash tray to service his occasional cigars.

The coconut shell, encased in plastic, is the one scratched with an SOS message which Kennedy sent with a native for help when he was marooned on a Pacific island after his PT boat was cut in two by a Japanese destroyer during World War II.

Loss of Perspective

A suburban lad handcuffed a young adult couple, strangers to him, and held them in their home at gun point for hours. His grievance: He didn't want to return to the private school his parents had chosen for him.

A five-year-old, angered because a relative refused to take him along on a little trip, carried out his threat and burned down the man's house and barn.

These are merely new examples of a not uncommon phenomenon of the times. All of us have read again and again of instances in which boys of varying ages have shot and killed one or both of their parents for such minor grievances as having been criticized for not doing their homework.

For a good while it was the fashion in some expert circles to ascribe such behavior either to the tensions of a troubled age or to some dark, mysterious inner human compulsion.

Certainly every case is an individual thing and no one could in good sense automatically rule out either one of these possible causes. There are indeed twisted, tense youngsters just as there are warped adults.

But in the last year or so some students of youthful behavior have begun to suggest that in many cases the cause of shocking misdeeds may be far from deeply puzzling.

They say the evidence is substantial that in countless cases the problem is simply an almost total lack of sound values.

Some youngsters, they say, resort quickly and easily to violent means for redressing even the most trivial grievances because they have never really been forcefully taught that such means are not acceptable in an orderly society living under law.

Their parents often do not enforce the most elemental disciplines. Even when they try, they frequently fail to fix in the growing child's mind that violence is not an approved counterweight to any grievance, small or large.

Meantime, such children are being deluged with comic books, television programs and similar presentations which daily proclaim to them that violence is not only acceptable, but in all too many instances the only final means of redress.

These distortions of life which flood the American living room cannot alone be blamed. For they fill an awful vacuum of values.

When a good system of values is taught from the earliest age, we can have some hope that children from five on up—excepting always the truly abnormal—will not kill their mothers and fathers because they were refused a favor or ordered to their room.

Violence is kept under control when it is kept in sane perspective.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Triple Role For Future Presidents

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—John F. Kennedy has made it awfully tough for a square-faced man like Herbert Hoover or a sourpuss like Calvin Coolidge ever to be President of the United States. He has also made it tough for a slow-speaking solon like Estes Kefauver.

For if future presidents are going to stand up to rapid catch-as-catch-can live TV press-conference debate, they will have to be endowed with a bit of John Barrymore plus the gift of gab of a Huey Long. In brief, brains alone may have to take a back seat in favor of looks, acting ability, and having your tongue locked to your brains.

Young John F. Kennedy fortunately has all three. But not every man is so fortunate. So in the future many with experience and brains but not looks or acting ability may be disqualified for president.

Watching President Kennedy's history-making press performance on television, my mind went back to some other famous press conferences that molded history. I don't claim to have been around for all of them, but I knew about them.

It was Teddy Roosevelt who really began the White House press conference. He held informal sessions with his own pet correspondents and was a past master at the art of floating trial balloons—a technique used by Kennedy before making recent cabinet appointments.

Woodrow Wilson formalized the White House press conference somewhat, permitted oral questions and gave oral answers. Warren Harding, who succeeded him, tried to follow the same technique, but was like a truck following a racing car. Eventually he got himself and the country into trouble.

Harding's Boner
During the Washington arms conference of 1921-22, Harding was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications on the islands of the Pacific applied to the main islands of Japan. He replied that it did. This meant that the Japanese could not fortify their homeland, and they hit the ceiling.

To rectify Harding's mistake it was necessary to draw up a complete new treaty.

After that Harding required questions to be submitted, in advance, in writing.

Coolidge followed the same technique of the written question. He droned through them, in a monotone, skipping those which were embarrassing. Newsmen couldn't protest when their questions were omitted because they couldn't ask questions.

Of course those were rather salubrious days with no great earth-shaking problems churning the nation, and Mr. Coolidge would try to enliven his rather dull conferences by homespun observations about the beehive he had found at the south lawn of the White House.

Herbert Hoover, who had more problems, required questions to be turned in, in writing, 24 hours in advance, and then never answered anything embarrassing. He had the habit of looking down at the statement he was reading as if he was afraid to face the press. After it was all over you felt as if you could have saved his time and yours by getting a copy of his statement in the first place.

If either Coolidge or Hoover had held live televised press conferences, the public would have become unglamorized in three weeks.

Truman's Boner

President Franklin Roosevelt for the first time since Wilson permitted oral questions and was a past master at fielding them. However, he did not permit direct quotes. You could report what the president said, but you couldn't put it in quotation marks. This gave him some leeway in case he made an error. It was a considerable advance over Coolidge's day when the press was merely permitted to report what the White House "spokesman" said, not knowing the president himself was the spokesman. Many people in those days did not even know that White House conferences took place.

Harry Truman's press conferences were fiery and turbulent. He gave more direct "yes" and "no" answers than any president in history. But some got him into trouble. One statement that he would drop the atom bomb over China in the Korean war brought Prime Minister Attlee of England flying across the Atlantic in a matter of hours.

Truman's aides would work with him before a press conference, coaching him on how to answer certain questions. But despite the coaching, once he got before the newsmen, he called the shots as he saw them. The result did not always help him politically.

In fact he played right into the hands of critical Republican publishers, which were legion.

If Truman had been on television, the public would have got a picture of a very truthful, hard-hitting, injudicious man who never hesitated to upset apple carts, either domestic or international.

Eisenhower at first didn't want to hold press conferences. He started out hating the press, and it took several weeks of persuasion by Jim Hagerty to drag him into his first performance. Later he almost got to enjoy them. And he went further than either Truman or FDR by permitting direct quotes. It was Hagerty's idea that press conferences be taped and excerpts televised later—after having any embarrassing errors eliminated.

And although it doesn't make for such good drama, this may be the more sensible procedure. After all, the fate of the world hangs on the words of the president of the United States, and drama perhaps should be subordinated to international equilibrium.

Guest Editorial

NEW ENGLAND HOMESTEAD (Springfield, Mass.): Farm Prestige.—Was there a "farm vote" in the last election? Certainly, several agricultural states indicated rather strongly that they were not in favor of controls.

The significant thing about the election was not how did these states go, but rather, how did the large urban centers vote and what was the effect of that vote.

For the first time in our history, the farm vote meant little as such. In terms of total numbers the power of the agricultural vote has diminished greatly. Neither candidate really concentrated heavily on the agricultural vote in this past election. This, in itself, is indicative that the power is almost gone.

All is not gloom, however. The farmer holds the welfare of the nation in the palm of his hand. A sound agricultural economy is vital to industry, health and general welfare.

In spite of the loss of power at the polls, the farmer is becoming an increasingly important individual in the over-all economy. As the years go on and the number of farmers decreases, those remaining in the industry will assume an ever-increasing position of importance.

Oldtime Struggle Begins Anew Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—That ancient struggle between a president and Congress—sometimes oiled over, sometimes quietly sullen, sometimes raw and bleeding—began anew today.

Like windswept Robert Frost's poem, President Kennedy's tidy inaugural address was the disciplined expression of a spirit which showed itself both human and realistic.

Much that he said Kennedy can carry out on his own through the powers of the presidency.

But on the broad meat-and-potatoes level of government there is much he can't do without the help of Congress which must give approval for both spending money and starting programs.

So today in his State of the Union message Kennedy had to come face to face for the first time as president with a Congress where he himself served 14 years.

Because he knows it well he knows the endless struggle to get action on what he wants. Congress can be led easily only in moments of frightening emergency, like war or depression. Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower could bear witness to this.

True, Congress is run by Kennedy's own Democrats because they outnumber the Republicans. But the real control is in the hands of the conservatives of both parties, as it has been for years.

Their policy is to move slowly, if at all. Eisenhower learned that. But he was a conservative, too, and it is one reason he and Congress got along so well.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
A portrait of the late Judge Henry Lamm, of Sedalia, former member of the state supreme court, will be presented to the court Feb. 3 by his friends. It was painted by Charles F. Galt of St. Louis. Judge Lamm, a Republican, served on the bench from 1905 to 1915.

1936
The Happy Hearts Sunday school class met at the home of Davjean Hatfield, 1516 East Broadway. Assisting hostesses were her mother, Mrs. Ray Hatfield and sisters, Maxine and Jacqueline. Members and visitors present were: Betty Jean Anton, Marvalee Barnum, Ila Belle Weir, Frances Radie, Laura Noble, Doris La Planie, Mildred Richardson, Marguerite Wolfe, Katherine Ann Modlin and Bernice Martin.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Members of the Baptist Church of Green Ridge, which was destroyed by fire on June 17, 1918, have started a building fund which has already reached $3,500. A building committee composed of C. L. Calvert, William Reed and Ed Nicholson has been appointed, and it is planned to start building in April. Rev. A. R. Foster, representing the general board of the state association of the Baptist church, who has been holding meetings at the Christian church in Green Ridge, has agreed to return and assist in the construction.

Kennedy, despite his talk of new frontiers, may turn out to be no boat-rocker, either. He indicated at his news conference last week he intends to keep hands off the inner workings of Congress. This may be taken to mean he will avoid interfering publicly.

But he also knows that unless he and his team pull the strings behind the scenes his programs will die in the cradle.

Since the war this country has gone through two phases. It is not clear yet whether the years ahead will be a third one or a continuation of an old one.

The first was the postwar Truman phase which lasted eight years. It was a turbulent time of adjusting to peace, of labor strife, inflation, industrial expansion, trouble with Russia, even of suspicion of the government itself in the form of McCarthyism.

It was an era of transition from terrible power, the atomic bomb, to incredible power, the hydrogen bomb. It was the time when America finally abandoned isolationism for internationalism.

It was a period which cried for and got, innovations in the form of foreign aid, military alliances, and bases around Russia.

Eisenhower apparently looked on himself not as an innovator but as a restorer of peace at home and a preserver of peace abroad. He tried nothing really new but America became prosperous and there was no war.

His was also the time when the world moved into the jet and missile age. It was a time when this country and Russia, while avoiding war, consolidated forces and prepared for what might become war.

At this point Kennedy steps in. There is peace at home but the world, still without war, is in upheaval.

The Doctor Says

A Common Sense Approach To Rearing Your Children

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Without spinning the verbal cocoons so dear to some psychiatrists, Dr. A. H. Chapman of Kansas City, Mo., has provided parents with a few principles and axioms that should prove of assistance in their approach to the very delicate problem of dealing with their adolescent children.

Couple a Restriction with a Privilege.
Examples: For the girl, "You must be in by midnight but you may invite your date in for coffee and cake for 45 minutes after you come home."

For the boy, "You're not old enough to take the car out at night yet, but you can have it for three hours on Sunday to take your girl friend swimming."

Couple a Liberty with a Responsibility.
Examples: For the girl, "You may entertain your friends in the living room but you must see that the room and the kitchen are cleaned up after they leave."

For the boy, "You may use the car but you must see that it's washed and polished before you put it away."

Couple a Compliment with a Criticism.

Examples: For the girl, "You're much too pretty to need mascara and eye shade. Why don't you go upstairs and remove all that mess before you go out?"

For the boy, "You're really a good-looking lad. Why do you spoil your appearance by dressing so sloppily?"

Link the Adolescent's Demands to Earning Capacities.

Examples: For the girl, "A cashmere sweater is an expensive luxury. If you want one, how about buying it out of your earnings as a baby sitter?"

For the boy, "If you need extra money for dating, how about getting a part-time job cutting grass or shoveling snow?"

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

By RUSSELL A. MANN JR.
Missouri Press News Service

House Receives Commerce Bill

The House of Representatives has received a measure to establish a Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

The measure was introduced by Rep. Paul D. Canaday, (D., Greene), who is chairman of the House Committee on Industrial Development. The measure was assigned for consideration to Rep. Canaday's committee.

It has the backing of Gov. John M. Dalton.

The proposed Division of Commerce and Industrial Development would replace the present Division of Resources and Development. The proposed commerce division would do essentially what the present resources division is empowered to do.

The major change proposed by the House measure would be the replacement of the present, bipartisan, 10-member, policy-making, Commission of Resources and Development with a director and a 7-member, non-policy making advisory committee, four of whom would be members of the same political party. The director of the proposed commerce division would be appointed by and directly responsible to the governor while the director of the present resources division is appointed by and directly responsible to the commission.

Perhaps interestingly enough, the House measure spells out that the proposed division shall encourage formation of "development committees," both local and sectional, throughout the state.

Highway Committee Gets Road Studies

The special Senate-House committee looking into the state's highway needs and ways to finance them has received two massive studies which, among other things, outline a 20-year road program for Missouri estimated to cost 7.3 billion dollars. The program includes state highways, city streets and rural roads.

Current taxes for road purposes are anticipated to produce 3.6 billion dollars and the state expects to receive another 1.3 billion dollars from the federal government through the next 20 years. If the 20-year road program were to be adopted it would, therefore, be necessary to raise another 2.4 billion dollars of which a billion dollars might come from user sources (gas tax and the like) and the rest from non-user sources (property tax and the like).

The 20-year plan is one of several presented to the committee but it is the one being most discussed now. The plan was formulated by the Automotive Safety Foundation, of Washington, D.C., and ways of financing it were suggested by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research of the University of Missouri. Both were hired for the studies.

Here is what the 20-year program would mean to the people of Missouri:

State Highway System: A total of 32,000 miles including 30,553 rural and 1,647 city. The rural system would include 1,368 miles of freeways, largely the interstate system; 495 miles of other four-lane highways; 3,124 miles classified "two-lane high type"; and others. Cost to the state would be 3.6 billion dollars and to the federal government 1.3 billion dollars.

City streets: A total of 5,531 miles of reconstruction plus replacement of existing surfaces as they wear out on another 4,490 miles. Cost would be 1.6 billion dollars.

Rural roads: A total of 4,408 miles paved and 60,974 miles gravel. Cost would be 935 million dollars.

According to a plan suggested, for financing the state system, money would come from present state sources such as the gas tax and registration fees and from the general revenue fund; for the city streets, money would come from present city sources including the gas tax and property tax; for rural roads, the money would come from sources such as property taxes and from motor vehicle taxes collected by the state and allocated to local rural administration.

Bill Seeks Tax Relief For Farm Credit Groups

A measure introduced into the House of Representatives seeks tax relief for farmers' co-operative credit associations.

The measure was introduced by Rep. James (Dunklin), Hibler, Whaley, McQuinn, Hankins, Baltz, Masters, Baker, Copeland, Simcoe and Poe. It has been assigned for consideration to the Committee on Agriculture of which Rep. James is chairman.

The measure would classify the credit associations for purposes of the Intangible Personal Property Tax Law as savings and loan associations and the intangible tax imposed would be two per cent rather than four per cent.

The associations maintain their members are double-taxed now paying both income and intangible taxes on dividends and they maintain they seek the same sort of relief from the situation for their members accorded similar businesses, in this case savings and loan associations which they feel their operations most closely resemble.

A total of 13 farmers' co-operative credit associations in as many districts are established in Missouri under the Farm Credit Act of 1933. They extend agricultural credit to farmers who become members when qualifying for a loan.

matter of FACT

Ironically, it was on April Fool's day of 1861 that William H. Seward suggested he relieve the "green" President Abraham Lincoln of his duties. Seward was secretary of state in the Lincoln administration and fancied himself a more qualified leader than the strapping Illinoisan. So he wrote a memo offering to take over the real operation of the government, with Lincoln as figurehead. But Lincoln refused to become a puppet.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

CONSPICUOUS DISPLAY—During Christmas week, a New York merchant advertised a coffee pot "for the woman who has everything else." It is solid 14 carat gold, with 250 diamonds and 150 rubies; price, $50,000.

The woman who would accept and display this pot does not "have everything else." She has neither good taste, nor compassion for the poor.

The newspaper that carried this ad was appealing at the same time for funds to bring a bit of Christmas cheer, and the feeling that they were not completely forgotten, to the old, the sick, the abandoned mothers and babies, and orphans of that great city. It was featuring "The 100 Neediest Cases."

I could not help thinking what a Red propagandist could do with this advertisement in Cuba, in India, in China, in Africa, in South America, or in New York City. Aside from any feeling of Christian charity, I object to this pot at a time when all of us are paying heavy taxes, or sending sons to foreign garrisons to prevent Communist slavery from engulfing the world.

This $50,000 pot gives aid and comfort to the enemy.

I believe in wealth, but also in the trusteeship of wealth. The Good Samaritan could have done little for the poor wretch on the Jericho road, if he had not had some wealth oil and wine, and a beast to fetch the poor fellow to an inn, and money to pay for his care.

Blackleg Is Treacherous

Someone was by the office recently reporting the loss of several young cattle with blackleg. I didn't have my reference books at home so I called a local veterinarian.

He told me that immunity was not obtained until 10 to 14 days after vaccination. He went on to say that the ideal time to vaccinate for blackleg was when the heifers were vaccinated for Brucellosis. That is usually at 5-8 months with dairy cattle and 6 to 10 months with beef cattle.

Soils and Crops Conference, Feb. 11 To Start With Picture

Present plans are to start our 37th Annual Soils and Crops Conference off with a colored picture. We have not used pictures before because of the difficulty of shutting out light in the cafeteria. However, we have a new screen that is supposed to show up well in daylight so we will try it out.

The picture will be on corn insects. One of the most challenging corn insects is the Southwestern corn borer! It is moving up from the southwest and is already causing serious damage in Southwest Missouri counties. Specimens have been identified in Benton and Henry counties so it is only a matter of time until it is here.

It is different from the European Borer in that three sprays were needed to control one brood and there may be three broods. Also there is no good guide as to when to spray as there is with the European corn borer.

The program will start immediately after the close of the picture at 10:20. Registration starts at 9:45. Jack Curran is Registrar and Cyrus Charles is his assistant. The picture comes on at 10:20. Robert Brauer is chairman, Leroy Ryan, Vice Chairman, Cloyce Wilson, Secretary and Paul Stephens, assistant secretary.

The theme of the meeting is "increasing efficiency in Feed and Seed Production." Something new will be presented in reports of pre-emergence granules for corn and soybeans, hay conditioners, windrowing grasses before combining, and fertilizing pastures for high yields.

The Chamber of Commerce will serve the noon lunch. The meeting is in the Smith-Cotton Cafeteria and the date is Saturday, Feb. 11.

Terracing Contractors Meeting Feb. 1 and 2

The annual state meeting for terracing contractors and A.S.C. program men is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 1 and 2.

Pettis County has experienced a slack in terracing from the time when we built over 100 terrace outlets in a year. Two years ago only 12 outlets were built in the county. Last year this doubled to 25.

One of the big advantages of terracing is that you put a field

Another Short Course First

Those dealers who sell agricultural sprays and chemicals in Missouri have two days set aside for them in late February at the University of Missouri.

They're invited to a special short course on agricultural chemicals, Feb. 21 and 22.

Speakers for the short course, the first of its kind at MU, will give more than just control recommendations. According to University Weed Control Specialist Hale Fletcher, speakers will give background information on control problems and the "why" of recommendations.

Purpose of the two-day short course is to aid dealers in understanding the use of agricultural chemicals.

Meat Dollar Mystery

When your meat dollar disappears into the butcher's cash register — here's how it's divided. Fifty-six cents goes to the farmer who raised the animals, 14 cents to the meat packer, 28 cents to the retailer who sells you the meat and two cents to the livestock marketing system. USDA says the farmer's share has gone down two cents since 1955, the retailer's share has gone up three cents.

Beef Station Is Accepting Test Entries

Missouri's Beef Cattle Testing Station is taking entries for its second test.

According to Station Supervisor R. K. Leavitt, calves born in August, September and October are eligible for entry. Delivery of calves to station will be made in March, April or May.

Entries will be accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis because of the limited amount of space at the Station. Leavitt says he'll be able to accept five entries for March delivery, and 10 each for April and May.

An entry consists of a bull and steer by the same sire. Calves are given 30-days at the testing facility to adjust to station conditions before their official 140-day test begins.

At the end of the test period, the steer of each entry is slaughtered to obtain carcass data. The bull is returned to the owner.

Purpose of the Station is to help beef breeders select sires that will produce high-quality calves.

Entry information is available at county extension offices throughout the state, or write R. K. Leavitt, Mumfords Hall, Columbia.

MU Ag Lawyer To Get Degree At Cambridge

University of Missouri's agricultural law specialist has been granted leave of absence to complete work on a Ph. D. degree at University of Cambridge in England.

Fred L. Mann is a member of the agricultural economics department at the University. He has been teaching a course in agricultural law and conducting research work.

Mann holds agricultural and law degrees from the University of Illinois and has attended the University of Copenhagen in Denmark. His Ph. D. degree at Cambridge will be in agricultural law.

Mann will return to his teaching, research and writing activities the first of June.

Farmers Produce More With Less

America's farmers produced a record total in 1960 — and did it with fewer workers on the farm than ever before!

The number of farm laborers last year dropped four per cent from the previous all-time low in 1959. USDA Marketing Service figures the annual average last year was 7.1 million workers on farms.

The number of farm operators and their family helpers dropped, too. Family farm workers reached an annual average of 5.2 million or four per cent less than 1959. Farm family workers made up nearly three-fourths of the total work force of just over seven million. This is about the usual proportion as in years past.

So, chalk up another record for American farmers — They continue to improve on their ability to produce more with less labor than any other country in the world.

Male Maneuver Wins Over Feminine Wits

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—It was badge against badge in Billings. And a male maneuver won over feminine wits.

It began when an off-duty traffic policeman a block from his car saw a meter maid watching the final seconds tick away on his parking meter.

Click went the meter and the maid started across the street, ticket ready.

"One more step and I'll pick you up for jay-walking," bellowed the patrolman.

He waved good-bye from his car while the meter maid was waiting on a red light.

Second Porpoise Is Dead Following Trip

CHICAGO (AP) — Brookfield Zoo's planned porpoise population of six is down to four. Billy, smallest of the lot, died Sunday.

Billy's death was the second to result, so veterinarians believe, from the finny funsters' air voyage from Miami, Fla., to their new home at the zoo. Brain damage in transit was listed as a possible cause of death.

Six porpoises were shipped from Miami Friday, after being purchased for $1,000 apiece. One died en route.

The four survivors will participate in a special show at the zoo.

The main feature of this year's event. Each panel will include contractors, county agents and ASC representatives from counties doing outstanding work in conservation.

FOOD IS A BARGAIN. Although food prices may seem high to consumers, this graph shows that retail food prices have not risen as fast in recent years as the average price consumers pay for their other goods and services. Prices paid to farmers for food products have gone down one-eighth from their 1947-49 level while the consumer price index has gone up more than one-fourth. University of Missouri extension economists point out that food today is a bigger bargain in terms of U.S. average wage levels than ever before.

In Cold War

Challenges Reds To Cut Tensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy challenged the Soviet Union today to cut back the "bitter and wasteful competition of he cold war" by joining the United States in a vast new venture in space science to probe the secrets of the planets Mars and Venus.

Even as he announced measures to bolster this nation's nuclear age military power against Communist might, the President told Congress he "intends to explore promptly all possible areas of co-operation with the Soviet Union and other nations 'to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors.'"

At the same time he warned the Soviet Union and Red China that the United States will continue to oppose the use of "aggression and subversion" in their drive for world domination.

In place of a conflict of force he offered "open and peaceful competition" in commerce, science, politics and ideas. In a peaceful struggle between freedom and communism, he said, "I would look to the future with ever increasing confidence."

Thus in his State of the Union message, following up his inauguration address of 10 days ago, Kennedy held open to the Communist powers a choice among three paths for the future: spreading conflict, peaceful competition, or increasing cooperation. He did not display much hope that they would speedily choose the ways of peace or cooperation.

He called this "an hour of national peril" and said he had been staggered during his 10 days in the White House to learn "the harsh enormity of the trials through which we must pass in the next four years."

"Our problems are critical," he declared. "The tide is unfavorable. The news will be worse before it is better. And while hoping for the best, we should prepare ourselves for the worst."

Kennedy implied new political and economic offensives by the United States in Communist-controlled Eastern Europe. He asked Congress for greater flexibility "to use economic tools in this area," evidently meaning foreign aid. And he said "we must never forget our hopes for the ultimate freedom and welfare of the Eastern European peoples."

But when he addressed the Soviet Union directly Kennedy put his emphasis on the possibility of cooperation.

"Specifically," he said, "I now invite all nations—including the Soviet Union—to join with us in developing a weather prediction program, in a new communications satellite program, and in preparation for probing the distant planets of Mars and Venus, probes which may someday unlock the deepest secrets of the universe."

"Today this country is ahead in the science and technology of space," Kennedy said, "while the Soviet Union is ahead in the capacity to lift large vehicles into orbit. Both nations would help themselves as well as other nations by removing these endeavors from the bitter and wasteful competition of the cold war."

"The United States would be willing to join with the Soviet Union and the scientists of all nations in a greater effort to make the fruits of this new knowledge available to all—and, beyond that, in an effort to extend farm technology to hungry nations—to wipe out disease—to increase exchanges of scientists and their knowledge—and to make our own laboratories available to technicians of other lands who lack the facilities to pursue their work."

"Where nature makes allies of us all, we can demonstrate that beneficial relations are possible."

even with those with whom we most deeply disagree—and this must someday be the basis of world peace and law."

Kennedy's proposals for scientific cooperation among the United States, the Soviet Union and other powers were the latest in a long series of such propositions to come out of Washington.

Kennedy laid down no startlingly new foreign policy in his State of the Union message. His discussion of foreign policy constituted rather an argument to Congress and the country for the need he sees for massive and costly efforts to meet the Communist challenge.

Next Swine Test Is Set During April

Swine breeders can make entry applications now for the next testing period at Missouri's Swine Testing Station.

The facility near Columbia is now concluding its current test period.

Pigs farrowed from Feb. 1 through March 10 will be eligible for station entry. According to Supervisor R. K. Leavitt, the station will begin accepting delivery of pigs for testing in early April. The test will end in August.

The station has capacity for 72 entries. As in the past, any breeder can make one or more entries.

Barrows in the entries are slaughtered to gain carcass data at end of test. Boars that meet station requirements are sold at a special sale at the end of the testing period.

Boars now ending the current test period will be sold Feb. 18, the last day of the Missouri Barrow Show in Columbia.

Copies of entrance rules and application blanks are available at county extension offices, or write Leavitt, Mumfords Hall, Columbia.

Dog Maintains Watch Over Master's Body

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Puzzled relatives learned Sunday why one of two pet dogs who disappeared with Bobbie Jack McMullin, 14, last Tuesday didn't come home.

Members of a big search party found the dog keeping watch beside Bobbie's body in rough country on the L. O. Backus ranch 3½ miles west of here.

The boy, a slight 60-pounder clad only in blue jeans, a light shirt and jacket, and tennis shoes, died about Friday of exposure to sub-freezing cold, said M. C. Williams, county health officer.

51 Families Taking a Part In Farm and Home Planning

The Farm and Home Planning Association is made up of 51 Pettis County Families with each family paying a $25 membership fee.

The year starts July 1. Lloyd Lewellen, who is the associate county agent in charge of this program spends all his time working with these families.

During the winter, two types of group meetings are held. The Farm and Home Planning dinner meetings are held in Sedalia. Discussion and workshop meetings are held in the homes of each community group. This winter there are four community groups holding 30 meetings in their homes.

The county-wide dinner meetings are held the second Tuesday night for four winter months, beginning in November. The arrangements for programs are made by a community group each month. Each family brings two covered dishes and the host group attends to placing all food on one large table, where it is served cafeteria style. This is a family meeting and the children are encouraged to come. It affords fellowship and exchange of ideas that help the association to function county-wide.

The community group meetings are held in the day in the homes from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Whenever three or more families want to meet, the Farm and Home Planning Agent will schedule community group meetings. These winter group meetings are being held in the Prairie, Lake Creek, Longwood and Smithton communities. Five subjects are being discussed in each group this winter.

The first series of meetings was on livestock outlook and balanced rations. During the morning each family was assisted as it worked out balanced rations for its livestock and crops were given to the families.

The second series of home meetings was a discussion on machinery costs. Through the use of a simple form each family first figured the annual ownership and operational costs of owning a $4,500 tractor. Using this same form the families figured their costs if they purchased new machinery. This information will aid them in making decisions where and when hiring custom machines would be cheaper than owning.

The third series of group meetings during the first two weeks of February will be held by Home Agent Opal O'Brian. Her discussion will be centered around adequate lighting in the farm home.

The fourth series of meetings in February will deal with crops. Fitting high profit crops to the land always draws discussion. The control of weeds in row crops will be discussed in the light of reducing costs. The outlook for 1961 as it pertains to grain crops prices will be applied to each farm to see if change in cropping plan will influence the farm income.

The fifth and final meeting will be on annual planning and budgeting. These families in most cases have been keeping records. By looking at itemized expenses in the past years these families can estimate very closely what their expenses will be during 1961. In using the outlook they have the expected prices they will receive for livestock and crops to be sold. This series of meetings is interesting and beneficial to these families.

University of Missouri extension specialists say this just isn't so. Poultry specialists Walt Russell and Glenn Geiger say that, in the first place, buyers would get this information anyway. Compared to producers, the number of firms handling farm products is small. They have frequent contact with each other and know what's going on at the markets. Without USDA market reports, and other information, the producer would be left in the dark, and at the mercy of unscrupulous buyers.

Actually, say Geiger and Russell, we should thank our lucky stars that such information is available. These reports can best be used by the producer to help plan his production and sales.

New Short Course

Farm machinery dealers are invited to a special Farm Machinery Dealer's Day at the University of Missouri. Date for the short course is March 7. The meeting is designed to bring equipment dealers up-to-date on new types of farm machinery and other innovations in this field.

Windsor Wins

Finest Basketball In Lions Tourney

The Sedalia Lions Club Invitational Basketball Tournament held the past week saw some of the finest basketball ever staged as a whole in any of their previous ten tournaments. The finals, Saturday night, saw one of the greatest of them all for the championship between the Windsor Construction and Springfield Hutchens, won by Windsor 102 to 95.

The third place game was equally as good and exciting when the Lee's Summit Trojans, 1960 defending champions, defeated the Riverside Mo. Red X by a 95 to 91 score.

Reviewing the games it is noteworthy to look back and see where the games provided the thrills. Numerous times in the latter part of both games the leading score switched back and forth at least 10 times, with the spread difference not being more than seven points at any length of time and most of the two games being played with one and three point differences.

Only the final game saw the scoring reach or go over the 100-point mark and that was in the final seconds of the Championship tilt.

Marvin Hills, of the Windsor Construction, was the scoring king of the tournament collecting a total of 84 before he fouled out of the championship game in the mid portion of the fourth quarter.

Hutchens, who also went out in the final minutes of the last quarter of the championship game was second high with 76 points.

It was interesting to note that brother Freddie Hills of Windsor was the second high scorer with 76 points for Windsor.

Jack Trogen, of the Springfield Hutchens, finished third with a total of 76 points before he fouled out in the final minutes of the game.

Medford Park, also of Springfield who played in but three games, and who was not present Saturday night had a total of 73 points for the tournament along with Ralph Osborn, of Lee's Summit. Park was the high individual game scorer having collected 38 points against Lee's Summit Friday night while George Pruitt of the Columbia Comets was second high with 29 points against Springfield.

The tournament scores from the start to the championship were: Tuesday night: Leeton 69 Western Ave of Sedalia 58; Columbia Comets 60 Hughesville 38; Warsaw 35 Brookfield 34; Riverside Red-X 62 Clinton Clearfield Cheese 42. Wednesday night: Windsor 61 Sedalia Wolverines 51; Lee's Summit 69 Versailles 43; Springfield Hutchens 86 Archie 58; Warrensburg "Untouchables" 62, Lincoln 43.

The quarter finals Thursday night: Riverside Red-X 80 Warrensburg 71; Windsor 72 Warsaw 51; Lee's Summit 79 Leeton 61; Springfield 85 Columbia 78.

Semi-finals, Friday night: Windsor 82 Riverside Red-X 72 and Springfield 93 Lee's Summit 77.

Finals, Saturday night: Championship game, Windsor 102 and Springfield 95; third place game, Lee's Summit 95 and Riverside Red-X 91.

Celtics May Have a Title In the Bag

BOSTON (AP) — Barring a complete collapse, the Boston Celtics have their fifth straight National Basketball Association Eastern Division title in the bag.

That was the word from the happy, weary defending world champs after Sunday's nationally televised 128-115 triumph over challenger Philadelphia. It gave Boston a six-game division lead — the largest of the season — over the Warriors.

"They'll never catch us now," captain Bob Cousy opined. "Not now. Not unless we all drop dead."

Cousy put on one of his typically brilliant exhibitions in a first quarter scoring burst that quickly put the game out of reach.

Boston ran off a string of 23 straight points, 11 of them by Cousy, in the first period burst as Philadelphia went 6 minutes and one second without scoring. That was the end of it.

Stone-cold Philadelphia hit only five of 23 shots in the first period while Boston struck on 16 of 30 attempts from the floor. Boston took a 38-16 quarter lead and boosted it up as much as 40 points before a late scoring burst by Wilt Chamberlain cut the final score. He finished with 46, but got only four in the important first period.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Hawks, seeking their fifth straight Western title, opened a 10½-game lead over runner-up Detroit with a pair of weekend victories while the Pistons were losing to Los Angeles 137-113 Sunday.

The Hawks whipped Cincinnati, still plagued by the absence of rookie star Oscar Robertson, 136-116 Saturday, then thumped Syracuse 125-108 Sunday.

Bob Pettit and Clyde Lovellette scored 25 each against the Nats as St. Louis stretched its winning streak to four games. Dolph Schayes tallied 26 points for Syracuse.

Rod Hundley, scoring 16 of 27 points in the third quarter, led a 34-point burst by the Lakers that gave them a clear edge over the pistons. Los Angeles' Elgin Baylor led both teams with 34 points.

Speedskating Record Falls To Teenager

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The 20-year speedskating empire of Ken Bartholomew crumbled on the bell lap of the mile race, and a Chicago teenager skated the old master out of a title.

Eddie Rudolph, a 19-year-old senior at Glenbrook High in suburban Chicago and a 1960 olympian, won the senior men's outdoor championship at Lake Como Sunday.

The first day leader by two points, Bartholomew at 40 couldn't stand the gaff when youngsters who weren't born when he won his first national started piling on the pressure.

He failed to score a point in Sunday's 4 races and wound up in a fourth place tie behind Rudolph's 15, the 13 of Arnold Uhllass of Yonkers, N.Y., and the 11 of Floyd Redbury of St. Paul. Bartholomew and Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich., had eight.

A new champion emerged also in the senior women's division, where schoolmarm Jeanne Ashworth, 22, Wilmington, Mass., dethroned Mary Novak of Lombard, Ill., by sweeping the 220, 880 and mile.

African Lad Is Wealthier By $9,500

By P. D. ELDRED
Associated Press Sport Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A cool South African lad, who idolizes Bobby Locke and intends to play at least 20 years more as a golf pro, was $9,500 wealthier today after winning the $7,000 San Francisco International Open with a blazing six-under-par 65 windup.

Husky Gary Player with almost machine-like accuracy scored six birdies in his final round Sunday to come from four strokes behind leaders George Bayer and Ted Kroll to win by two strokes, in a pouring rainstorm.

The 25-year-old Johannesburg star—on his seventh American tour since 1955—finished 12 under par for his four rounds, taking a total of only 272 strokes.

Bayer, the 240-pound ex-Washington football player who shared the lead through three rounds, shot even par 71 but he couldn't cope with young Player's sensational birdie shooting in the rain.

Bayer settled for 274 while Kroll, the tournament veteran who had started the last round tied with Bayer, fell back to 276.

Don Whitt came up strong over the sodden 6,672-yard Harding Park mire with a five-under-par 66 to tie Bayer at 274. The two collected $3,800 each.

"I've played all over the world and never encountered worse weather than we had today," Player said.

Don January and young Al Geiberger were tied at 275, Jay Hebert came up even with Kroll at 276 and a stroke farther back at 277 came Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Jackie Burke Jr., Ken Venturi and Canadian Stan Leonard.

Gardner Dickinson and Charlie Sifford, the only Negro playing on the tour and the only one competing in this tournament, were tied at 278.

In taking $9,000 first prize money and $500 additional in the one-day pro-amateur event that preceded the International, Player boosted his 1961 tournament earnings to $12,672.

Maple Leafs Hold a Share Of Top Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's surging Maple Leafs are clinging to a share of first place in the National Hockey League today, partly fulfilling a prediction coach Punch Imlach has been re-iterating all season.

The Leafs on the heels of Montreal for the last several weeks, pulled up to the injury-riddled Canadiens over the weekend by winning twice—2-1 over the Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night and 4-1 over the New York Rangers Sunday night.

The Canadiens, meanwhile, were held to a pair of ties. They deadlocked the Detroit Red Wings 3-3 Saturday night and needed a late third period goal by Jean Beliveau to tie the Black Hawks 1-1 last night.

Each team now has 62 points with the Canadiens having played two less games.

In Sunday's other game, the Red Wings defeated the Bruins 3-1.

The Black Hawks remained in third place with 51 points, two points ahead of the Wings in fourth with 49.

Red Kelly was the star of Toronto's victory over New York. The 33-year-old veteran scored two goals in the second period. Bert Olmstead and Allan Stanley were the other Toronto scorers. Floyd Smith got his first NHL goal for New York.

Beliveau produced his game-tying goal for Montreal at 18:12 of the third period and deprived Chicago goalie Glenn Hall of his seventh shutout. Defenseman Al Arbour accounted for Chicago's lone tally in the second period — his first goal of the season.

Detroit built up a 3-0 lead against Boston in posting only its second victory in nine outings. Alex Delvecchio, Al Johnson and Norm Ullman found the range before Johnny Bucyk of the Bruins beat Red Wings' goalie Terry Sawchuk, who was making his first start in Boston this season.

Pair Added To Baseball Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Carey and the late Billy Hamilton are the latest additions to baseball's Hall of Fame. The two former National League center fielders, famed for their base-stealing ability, will be inducted formally July 24 at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Carey, 70, holder of the modern National League record for stolen bases with 738 in a 20-year career from 1910 to 1929 with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, said in Miami Beach, Fla., he was "happy and proud of the honor of being selected." Max expects to be on hand personally when his plaque is dedicated.

Hamilton, who died in 1940, was one of the truly great stars of the pre-1900 days of baseball. He had a lifetime batting average of .344 while playing with Philadelphia and Boston from 1890 to 1901. Known as "Sliding Billy", he stole 797 bases, the all-time league record, in that span and also stole 140 with Kansas City in the American Association which considered itself a major league. If those were counted his total would be 937.

The two men were named Sunday by the veterans' committee, headed by Warren Brown of the Chicago American, which considers only men who have been inactive as players for at least 30 years. It was their first chance to honor Carey who previously had been under the jurisdiction of the baseball writers who select from among those out of baseball at least five years but not more than 30.

Carey, known as "Scoop" for his great knack of coming in fast to grab sinking liners, played the outfield more games than anybody (2,421) and holds the league record for most assists (339) by an outfielder. In 1922 he was caught only twice in 53 attempted steals.

Max played with Pittsburgh from 1910 to the middle of 1926 when he went to Brooklyn on waivers. He played with the Dodgers through 1929 and managed the club in 1932-33 until replaced by Casey Stengel, an old teammate. Since then he has coached, managed minor league teams, scouted and worked as an official at dog races in Florida.

Hamilton's records border on the fantastic. In 1891 he stole 115 bases, the all-time league high. In 1894 with the Phillies he hit .398, stole 88 bases and scored 196 runs, another record. Yet he was low man in the outfield. The Phils' picket line in '94 included Ed Deleahanty in left (.400) Hamilton in center and Sam Thompson in right (.403). The utility man, George Turner, hit .423.

New Champions In Women's Golf Play

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach and Barbara Williams of Richmond, Calif., are the new champions of the Women's Four-Ball Golf Tournament.

The two youngsters—Miss Williams is 22 and Miss Preuss will be 22 on Feb. 9—upset Marlene Stewart Strait of Toronto and Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, 3 and 2 in finals of the 16th annual tournament Sunday.

Bearcats Bid This Week For 4th Title

Associated Press Sports Writer
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Coach Ed Jucker's Cincinnati Bearcats, who many observers thought would roll over and play dead to Bradley's Braves in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race, begin a bid this week for a fourth consecutive league championship.

The Bearcats, who won their ninth straight game in beating Drake 80-70 last Saturday, meet front running Bradley, 5-0 in the loop, in Cincinnati Tuesday.

Apparently having gotten over shock of having to play without three-time All America Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati hasn't lost a game since its 72-53 setback by Bradley in Peoria, Ill., Dec. 23.

The championship odds are still against Cincinnati, though, since Bradley has won all five of its conference games and the Bearcats lost two before racking up their next five league foes.

On the Cincinnati side, however, is the fact the Bearcats play four of their remaining five conference games at home. Bradley will play four of its remaining seven on enemy courts.

Bradley has the loop's leading scorer in All America candidate Chet Walker who has averaged 25.7 points in 15 games. Paul Hogue is Cincinnati's leading point maker with a 16.5 average in 17 outings.

While Bradley has averaged 84 points per game to Cincinnati's 75.1, the Bearcats have been the better defensive team. Cincinnati's foes have managed only 61.1 per game to Bradley's 65.0.

Both Bradley, ranked No. 3 nationally on a 14-1 record, and Cincinnati (14-3) have major chores in non-league games this week. Bradley meets No. 2 ranked St. Bonaventure in Madison Square Garden Thursday. Cincinnati plays No. 6 ranked Iowa in Chicago Stadium Saturday.

Other games this week: Tonight—North Texas at Oklahoma City, Wednesday—Iowa State at Drake, Thursday—North Texas at Wichita, Houston at Tulsa, Saturday—North Texas at Tulsa, Oklahoma City at St. Louis.

Sophomore Ernie Moore, playing his last game of the season because of scholastic difficulties, scored 30 points in Wichita's 91-74 victory Saturday over Tulsa at Wichita. It was Wichita's third conference victory against two losses. Tulsa is 1-4.

Wilma Rudolph Named Female Athlete of Year

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—It's tough to keep ahead of Wilma Rudolph on a cinder track, but when it comes to talking, the slim speedster prefers to listen.

The Clarksville, Tenn., girl who raced to three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics was named female athlete of the year for 1960 Saturday.

Characteristically, this was her brief response: "I'm very happy. And I guess I was surprised."

But gold medals are not handed out for loquacity. Behind the shyness is a determination that has carried the 130-pound Tennessee A&I sophomore to the pinnacle of the track world, overcoming a crippled foot in childhood.

In The Associated Press year-end poll of sports writers and broadcasters, Wilma was named first on 115 of the 120 ballots. She received 365 points on a 3-2-1 basis, easily outdistancing swimmer Chris Von Saltz, another winner of three gold medals, who received 126. World and Olympic figure skating champion Carol Heiss—now Mrs. Hayes Alan Jenkins—was third with 101.

Darlene Hard was a distant fourth and Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 winner, was fifth. Both are tennis players.

Wilma's coach, Ed Temple, termed the award "a tremendous honor that couldn't be given to a more deserving person."

"She certainly has proved herself one of the world's greatest athletes," Temple said.

Temple believes Wilma can break 11 seconds for 100 meters if she's ever pushed, an unprecedented feat for a woman. She ran the distance in 11 flat in the Olympics, but a record wasn't allowed because of a following wind. She

Turns In High Jump As Indoor Feature

BOSTON (AP)—"That's a heck-ova jump," John Thomas said when first informed of the fantastic 7-foot-4½ leap turned in by Russian Valery Brumel.

"More power to him," the tall, 19-year-old Boston University junior said. Then he fell to musing.

"Brumel's only a little guy, just over six feet. . . ." He said, and let the sentence tail off. "Well if he can do it, I don't see why I can't."

So he promptly turned in a 7-foot-3 high jump as the feature of the 72nd running of the Boston A.A. Games, raising by one-half inch the National indoor standard he set last season.

Brumel's leap, also indoors, was recorded hours before Thomas' jump Saturday. Because of AAU regulations, neither will be considered for world records, since those are based only on outdoor performances.

also won the 200-meter dash and anchored the winning girls 400-meter relay team.

In her first start of 1961, the 20-year-old star cracked the American women's indoor record for the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.9 seconds in the Los Angeles Invitational Jan. 21.

Wilma is only the fourth star to win the female athlete award since its inception in 1931. The others were Babe Didrikson, 1932, Helen Stephens, 1936, and Holland's Fanny Blankers-Koen—the last woman to win three Olympic gold medals in track before Wilma—in 1948.

Unlike the immortal Babe, who turned to golf and won the award five more years as Mrs. George Zaharias, Wilma has no plans to try another sport—or any sport—professionally.

Jack Paar Wants Out Of Contract

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was almost a year ago when Jack Paar, with tears in his eyes, arose from his host's chair on the NBC "Tonight" show and walked off the program murmuring, "Surely there must be a better way to make a living."

In the intervening 12 months, many things have happened to Paar, including a triumphal return to his show. But Paar has not retreated one inch from his belief about a better way to make a living.

He is not kidding and he is not threatening when he says that he wants to leave his late-night NBC show by the end of this year, even though his contract runs to the end of 1962.

"And what would I do?" he repeated dreamily. "I'd take my wife and daughter and go off for a long time to some place where nobody even mentioned television. I'd rest. I'd travel. I'd fool around the house."

And, after that, he'd like to return to his profession: entertainer. "Perhaps one show a week for two hours," he said. "I think I'd like a Sunday night show. It looks so easy to the audience, and nobody has any idea how hard it is and how much work goes into those few minutes I do alone."

Paar has been working on another of his occasional early evening shows, "The Square World of Jack Paar," which will be shown Tuesday night on NBC (10-11).

If he feels so over-worked doing his regular show, why does Paar take on extra performing jobs?

"One thing the walkout did was make me fall in love with travel," he explained. "I'd always been a little nervous about traveling before, but now I can get all choked up and emotional just thinking about all those planes leaving for places I'd like to go. In the past year I've been to Japan, Hong Kong, England, Italy, Spain, Germany, North Africa, France and Hawaii. We made a lot of film, and some of it seemed pretty amusing."

"I figured out that if I could use the film on a special show it would be the only way I could get back the money I spent on our traveling."

If you watch enough television, you'll be rewarded occasionally by the darndest experiences.

For instance, on Friday night in the CBS spot recently awarded a panel show called, "You're In the Picture," there wasn't any panel. There was just Jackie Gleason talking about what a terrible show "You're In the Picture" had been the week before. Jackie was wonderful—funny, sad, witty and frank. But suppose every time a program proved a dud, the management devoted the next show to discussing it.

Then Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan Show there was Salvatore Dali, the painter, with a fencers mask over his head, a cane in his left hand and a veterinarian pistol, designed to shoot anesthesia into ailing lions, in his right. He was shooting pink bullets at a canvass, and achieving what he said was a religious theme.

"You are looking at an historic moment in art," Sullivan informed us. Maybe it wasn't historic it was an explosive moment. And from now on, if you can aim straight, you're an artist.

for social event at the White House given by the Kennedys—started off with the swearing in of 15 of the latest appointees. Chief Justice Earl Warren, introduced by Kennedy as "the busiest man in Washington," officiated at the ceremony in the East Room.

Mrs. Kennedy, in a black velvet sleeveless sheath dress, stood with her husband, vice president and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and the Warrens to receive the guests in the Blue Room, where a fire burned in the stately fireplace.

The guests mingled later in the state dining room, where a buffet table was laden with tiny sandwiches, cakes and goodies. Drinks, including California and New York champagne, were served at a nearby bar-table. The Marine Corps Band played in the north lobby.

Invited to the reception were 149 administration officials. All appointees to major posts in the administration were on the guest list.

The Kennedys left for their private quarters after about an hour on the receiving line and did not join the guests in the dining room.

The party brought together some of the President's very newest appointees, such as Edward R. Murrow, director of the United States Information Agency, named only Saturday, and some holdovers from prior administrations, such as long-time FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

During the day, Kennedy also attended a solemn Red Mass, celebrated by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, invoking divine blessings on the administration of justice.

Unknown Object Crosses Skies Sunday Evening

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — An unidentified object drifted through the sky across Kansas from east to west Sunday night.

Witnesses said it was circular and oval in shape, with glowing colors of yellow, orange, red and green.

It was sighted in the Kansas City area from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Later sightings were by observers at Ft. Riley, Schilling AFB at Salina, Hays, Larned, Hill City and Goodland.

The Federal Aviation Agency station at Hill City watched the object from 11:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m. It was northeast of that station.

Marie Engleman, Hill City newspaper woman, said "it looked something like a star to the naked eye, but when you saw it through binoculars you could see it was lit up like a Christmas tree."

Cousins Draw Terms

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—William Harrison Burley, 19, St. Joseph, Mo., and his cousin, Charles Eugene Davis, 18, Sublette, Kan., drew federal prison terms Saturday for taking a stolen car across a state line.

Burley was sentenced to three years and Davis to a maximum of five years, subject to modification in 90 days. They had been charged with taking a stolen car from St. Joseph, Mo., to Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 6.

Leopold's Not Here

NEW YORK (AP)—A New Orleans resident, checking a rumor that Leopold Stokowski was in town, called a prominent hotel Sunday.

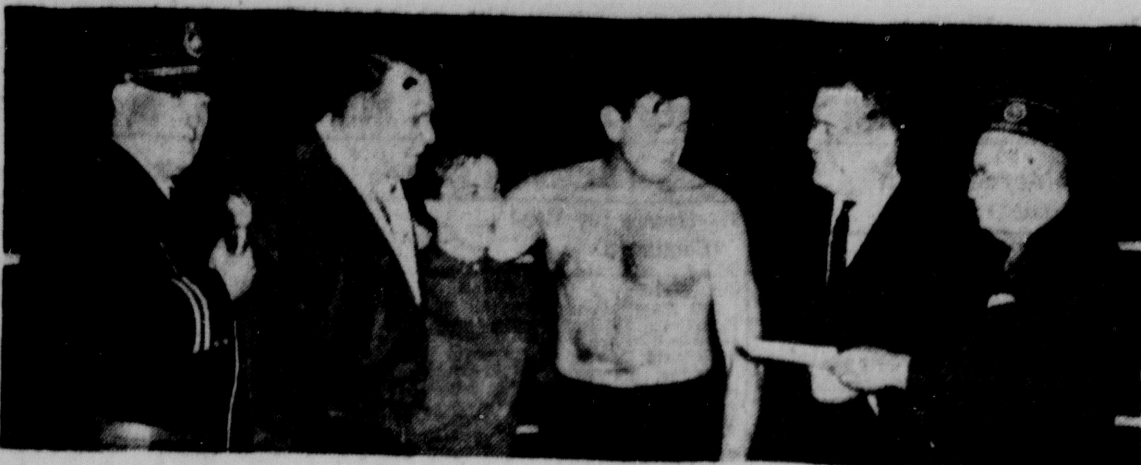

"Is Leopold Stokowski registered there?" the caller asked. "Who?" the hotel replied. "Leopold Stokowski, the conductor."

"Oh, you don't want this number," the hotel said. "You want the Canal Street car barn."

CRIPPLED CHILDREN GET $450—On Jan. 10 the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, in conjunction with promoter Gus Karras, presented a benefit wrestling show at the Convention Hall, Liberty Park, for the Crippled Children's Center. After expenses had been paid the fund for the Center reached $450 and a certified check for the amount was presented to J. D. Walker, director of the Center, at the wrestling matches last Wednesday night.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin acted as master of ceremonies and is at the extreme left, next is Thor Hagen, Miss Judy Glover, and Sonny Myers, wrestlers, who appeared on the benefit. Next is Mr. Walker receiving the check from Joe Toler, who spearheaded the ticket sales for the benefit. ## Many Wait For Big 'O' To Stumble

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

One week doesn't make a basketball season, but this one could for St. Bonaventure, Bradley, North Carolina, Duke, and Southern California—a havoc-wrecking handful just waiting for national leader Ohio State to stumble.

While the beat-em-all Bucks take their 19-game winning streak on the road against Wisconsin (Monday) and Michigan (Saturday), a pair of second-division Big Ten clubs, the others have some championship elimination matches coming up in probably the most important week of the season.

St. Bonaventure (14-1), second-ranked nationally, plays at Marquette Tuesday, then heads for New York's Madison Square Garden for a showdown with third-ranked Bradley (14-1) on Thursday. Bradley first goes to Cincinnati, a surging club with a 9-game winning streak, for a Missouri Valley Conference challenge on Tuesday.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina and fifth-ranked Duke renew their battle for the regular season title in the Atlantic Coast Conference—the only title the probation-penalized Tar Heels have to aim at this time around.

The Tar Heels, 12-2 with a 10-game winning streak, play Clemson Tuesday and Maryland Thursday before colliding with Duke at Durham on Saturday. Duke, its only loss in 15 games to North Carolina in the Dixie Classic final, plays at South Carolina Tuesday.

Ninth-ranked Southern California, now 14-2 and unbeaten in its last seven games, defends its Big Five Conference lead against runner-up UCLA Friday and Saturday in the two-game set that could decide which goes into the NCAA tournament.

All the other conference teams are in action during the week as well as the independent clubs that are trying to build up credentials for consideration for the non-automatic berths in the two post-season tournaments—the NCAA and the NIT.

Bradley, which whipped Marquette 84-68 in the national TV game last Saturday, could just about put away the Missouri Valley title if it can win at Cincinnati. The Thursday battle with St. Bonaventure in New York could decide the successor in the polls to Ohio State should the Buckeyes falter. The Bonnies' only loss was by two points to Ohio State in the Garden's Holiday Festival in December.

Start Court Battle Over Big Estate

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A court battle over the estate of James S. Bullock, victim of a mysterious, still unsolved killing more than two years ago, was scheduled to start in Federal District Court today.

The victim's widow, now Mrs. Dean Cole of Overland Park, Kan., is claiming the $65,088 insurance money left by the 27-year-old clerk and part-time St. Louis University student.

Mrs. Gertrude Duerbeck, Bullock's aunt, who has claimed $19,736 of the money, has charged that Mrs. Cole entered into a "corrupt scheme" to marry Bullock and replace the aunt as beneficiary on two insurance policies.

Mrs. Cole, a kindergarten teacher in suburban Berkeley at the time of the slaying, refused to submit to a lie detector test and has resisted efforts of police to return her here for questioning. Her attorney, Mortimer A. Rosen, when asked if she plans to come back for the trial, said "she will do whatever is necessary to clear her name."

She is not under subpoena. U. S. Dist. Judge Randolph A. Weber will hear the trial without a jury. Bullock was found dying of gunshot wounds near the city art museum in Forest Park Dec. 17, 1958.

He died without making a statement. Each scored decisive victories on unbanked boards in the Star Games Saturday night.

Lawrence, the little Australian taking a radio-TV course at Houston University, turned in an outstanding 8.542 in two mile. Moran, Penn State graduate student whose 4:08.3 mile here last year is the fastest known on a flat indoor track, repeated with a satisfactory 4:11.5 for the eight laps.

Together with Bob Brown of Penn State and Hayes Jones fresh out of Eastern Michigan, they dominated the games at the D.C. Armory. Brown swept the 70, 80 and 100-yard sprint series, while Olympic bronze medalist Jones equaled a meet mark of 8.2 in the 70-yard hurdles.

Other Star-Games winners were Don Bragg, whose 15-1 pole vault was the highest of the indoor season to date; Frank Bowens of Winston Salem Teachers, a repeater in the 600 at 1:13.7; Cary Weisiger of the Quantico Marines with a 2:12.7 for the 1,000; Bob Gardner of Quantico with a high jump of 6-6½ and Ronald Zinn, a West Point cadet, with a mile walk of 6:40.8 for another meet record.

On House Rules

Kennedy Administration Facing Key Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration faces its first key vote in the House Tuesday. It is on a plan to enlarge the Rules Committee, the group of 12 men who decide what bills come before the House.

Speaker Sam Rayburn announced over the weekend there would be no compromise on his plan to add three members to the committee. This would break the power of four conservative Republicans and two Southern Democrats on the committee who consistently have blocked House votes on many social welfare bills.

Ending this power is the first key to getting President Kennedy's New Frontier legislation through Congress. Many House liberals regard the step as absolutely essential if bills are to be enacted covering these Kennedy pledges: aid to education, aid to depressed areas, housing aid, medical care for the aged under Social Security, and raising the minimum wage.

Rayburn is deeply committed to ending the bottleneck power of the committee. His "no compromise" announcement Saturday indicates he thinks he now has the votes to win.

Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia is chairman of the Rules Committee and one of the Southern Democrats who teams with the Republicans to produce bill-blocking 6-6 tie votes in the committee.

Smith had offered to clear the five major Kennedy legislative proposals and also to give up the committee's power to prevent bills from going to House-Senate conferences in return for leaving his committee alone.

But Rayburn said, "Five bills is just a couple of weeks' work. We've got a two-year session coming up, and I've got to look at the long haul."

"I don't know what bills are going to come up, but I think the newly elected President has a right to get his legislative program considered in the House."

"And I think that with a Rules Committee as composed now it couldn't be done. A committee divided 6-6 can't do business."

The Rayburn plan would add two Democrats and one Republican to the committee. The two new Democrats presumably could be counted on to vote with the administration. Bills thus could be freed for action by an 8-7 vote, even if the new Republican joined the conservative coalition.

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP)—Temporary tracks skirting the wreckage today permitted Southern Pacific traffic to bypass a freight car pile-up.

Nine cars derailed and six of them overturned when a defective rail buckled after 35 cars of a 135-car train, drawn by four diesel engines, had gone over the weak spot Sunday.

No one was hurt but some of the heavily loaded 20,000-pound cars piled up dangerously close to a row of houses.

Two boxcars careened into a church parking lot.

Ike Plans Another Quail Hunt Today

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Private citizen Dwight D. Eisenhower planned today to try his luck hunting south Georgia quail on the plantation of former Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey.

The former President drove over from Albany Sunday where he had been hunting on the Bluff Springs plantation of W. Alton Jones for a week. Accompanying him on the two-hour trip were Dr. Howard Snyder, Robert Woodruff and William Robinson.

Eisenhower did not go to church and was unable to hunt because Georgia law prohibits such activity on Sunday.

Eisenhower plans to leave Humphrey's Milestone plantation Thursday by car for Tallahassee, Fla., where he will board Woodruff's private plane for a flight back home to Gettysburg, Pa.

Reporter Gets Right Number on Fire Call

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Reporter Bob Friedly of the New Orleans States-Item was making telephone calls to check on a fire. One number answered.

Friedly: "Is there a fire in your neighborhood?"

"Not in the neighborhood," a man said. "It's in my house. You'll have to excuse me. It's getting hot as hell around here."

Seek Floating Revolution

Hunting for Santa Maria
Similar to 'Weird Dream'

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP staff writer Saul Pett and AP photographer John Rooney spent much of Sunday chasing around the Atlantic in a U.S. Navy plane in a fruitless search for the Santa Maria.

By SAUL PETT

OVER THE ATLANTIC OFF BRAZIL (AP)—Hunting the Santa Maria is like a weird dream crazily fluctuating between Blackbeard's 17th century and today.

We are heading back to Recife after 11 gruelling hours and 2,000 miles up and down the Atlantic, chasing the floating revolution. Something went wrong in the fuel mixture feeding the two piston engines of the Navy Neptune and so the hunt was cut short with 600 miles of black ocean remaining between us and home.

We have two jets on the wings that can be turned on, but they use up 400 times as much precious fuel as the propellers do.

The pilot, Lt. Daniel Krauss of St. Thomas Island, Ga. doesn't seem too worried. But being natural-born cowards, AP photographer John Rooney and I are plain numb.

Mostly we have been flying in soupy, rainy, bouncy weather in a plane designed for the comfort of electronic gadgets, not people curled up like pretzels.

For 11 hours the two pilots haven't left the cockpit. The ra-darman hasn't looked away from the scope or the navigator from his instruments or the radioman from his dials.

Seven times we had something on the radar. But coming down to investigate we found it was only a freighter, the wrong passenger ship or once a tiny craggy island.

Three times in the fog or darkness we approached other searching planes. When the radarman announced "aircraft dead ahead 47 miles" we remembered Brooklyn.

One time the radarman announced over the intercom, "Surface object now 34 miles, other aircraft 41 miles."

"Good, said Krauss, "we may beat him to it."

The two planes exchanged headings and altitudes and finally passed us on the right which seemed the only decent thing to do. The surface object turned out to be the wrong ship.

Several planes went out Sunday to hunt for the Santa Maria. She was hard to find because the Brazilian government had grounded all flights for a full day for reasons never made clear. When the clearance finally came, Henrique Galvao had a 24-hour start in which he could have covered 375 miles in any one direction since his last known position.

This circle more than 750 miles in diameter had to be searched and that's a lot of ocean.

'Fatherland or Death'

Cuban Youngsters Inspired
By Castro Against InvadersBy HAROLD LAVINE
(DP&R Special Service)

HAVANA — This Cuban capital today is a comic opera with undertones of terror, like a sick joke told in a graveyard at midnight.

The city is swarming with teenage boys and girls playing soldier, Milicianos and Milicianos, as the Cubans call them. The rooftops are crawling with them. And everywhere there are guns — anti-tank guns mostly, but also anti-aircraft guns and field artillery.

The Malecon, the broad beautiful boulevard bordering Havana harbor, is closed to all but official traffic; the Milicianos have dug emplacements there for guns pointing out to sea.

Maceo Park has been ripped up for gun emplacements too. The famed Hotel Nacional is now a barracks.

All day long and far into the night the radio keeps blaring denunciations of the United States and "Yanqui Imperialism," the U. S. Marines and the "Wall Street Warmongers." The streets fairly bristle with signs vowing "We will win" and "Fatherland or Death" and "Death to the Invader."

It's fantastic, but the Castro government really seems to believe the United States plans to invade Cuba any minute now.

Equally fantastic are the preparations to defend Havana against this imagined "invasion." The guns along the Malecon are nearly all anti-tank guns and what use they would be against a warship only Raul Castro, Fidel's brother and Cuba's Minister of Defense, knows. Moreover sea spray keeps drenching them and many must be corroded by now.

The Milicianos and Milicianos are well armed — largely with Czech weapons, rifles, automatic rifles, and tommy guns — but they have almost no training in using these weapons and even less in combat.

They don't even know how to handle the weapons; hardly the day goes by when at least a couple don't manage to shoot themselves. The kids are scattered about the city, helterskelter. You find them lounging in front of public buildings, street corners, in bars and coffee bars, in the lobbies of the hotels. They stare at the passersby or chat with each other or munch sandwiches or drink cokes. They are really appealing youngsters, especially the girls; some look no more than fifteen. However they clearly believe what they have been told about the imminence of a U. S. invasion. And they're determined to die in the defense of Cuba.

Meanwhile, to make the fantasy even more incredible, the average Habanero goes about his business just as though nothing is happening. He doesn't even bother to look at the guns rumbling past him on the Prado, Havana's principle avenue. He does not bother to listen to what the radios are trumpeting. Ask the Habaneros if they believe the Marines are coming and they shrug. Some smile cynically. Some say "Es posible." And some just shrug.

Sheriff Fairfax Urges Tips
Be Called In By Residents

(Editor's Note: This is another in this series of articles concerning city and county officials, their staffs and responsibilities.)

The new sheriff of Pettis County is Emmett Fairfax, who has as his chief deputy, Jack Coutts.

The sheriff's office is located on the third floor of the court house and E. J. Thomas is office deputy. It is Thomas who takes care of the office work, the correspondence, operates the radio, answers the telephone and the many other things.

Virgil Morris is the jailer and Mrs. Morris is the matron of the jail. They are just getting moved into the living quarters which have been remodeled and redecorated. Grover Thomas has been staying there during the day until the living quarters were ready for Mr. and Mrs. Morris to move in.

Sheriff Fairfax, prior to taking over the office attended a two weeks state school for sheriffs at Rolla, which he has found very beneficial. This was not compulsory, but he feels that it has given him many instructions on sheriff's duties that he would not have known otherwise, at least for some time, and a better understanding of the office. It gave the duties of a sheriff on procedure and afforded an opportunity to get acquainted with sheriffs of other counties which means a great deal since they must work together.

Chain of Fires
Plague Southern California City

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—Two costly fires broke out Sunday in this Southern California farm city, shaken by four spectacular blazes in the last eight days.

Officials said they found no evidence linking the fires to union organizing strikes that have hit nearby Imperial Valley fields, which provide 80 per cent of the nation's winter lettuce.

Police arrested a 15-year-old boy and three laborers for investigation of arson.

One of the fires Sunday caused the temporary evacuation of 500 persons because of dangerous fumes.

Investigators said at least three of the fires, within a two-block radius, were the work of arsonists. Total loss from the four blazes was estimated at 275,000.

The two blazes Sunday occurred within a 2½ hour period. Five firemen were treated at a hospital for smoke inhalation and minor injuries.

Scott Has Backing
Of Entire Home Town

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The whole community of Hamburg, Pa., 3,800 in all, will be in 8-year-old Scott Balthaser's corner when he undergoes an operation today at University Hospital to close a hole in his heart.

The residents of Scott's hometown have volunteered to double, with their own donations, the amount of blood needed in the operation. A 40-pint quota is required.

He has found that he has had very good results through the co-operations with other sheriffs, the highway patrol, the police department and other officials, for already he has received tips from people in the county that have led to the solving of some crimes. Sheriff Fairfax stated that a call to him giving even the least little tip can be helpful. He and his men must have leads, he said, and if they are given a license number or told of anything that appears to be suspicious in anyway, the citizens of Sedalia and the entire county will be doing a great service to their community by calling him, for he and his men will follow through on even the slightest lead.

Jack Coutts, said Sheriff Fairfax, is well qualified for the job of chief deputy. He has been assistant chief of police, and has attended Highway Patrol School for law enforcement both in Kansas and at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Coutts, he explained, does the investigation along with the sheriff on any type of crime, serves warrants on all types of civil and criminal cases, assists the sheriff in transporting prisoners, takes over the duties of the sheriff when he is away. He is the first deputy directly under the sheriff and thus assumes his duties.

The jailer takes care of the prisoners and is in charge of the jail. The jail is his responsibility, and, Sheriff Fairfax pointed out, that people have the idea that there are hardly ever prisoners in the county jail. The average taken from the past 18 months, he stated, is four or five a day over

Wrong Number May Have Saved a Life

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—William Horowitz dialed a wrong number Sunday and may have saved a man's life.

"Please help me," cried a man at the other end of the line. "I'm dying."

Horowitz asked the man's name and phone number. When he dialed back and got the same plea for help, he called police.

Patrolmen checked the address listed for the number and found Anthony J. Lancor, 74, suffering from a heart attack.

Taken by ambulance to a hospital, he was reported in satisfactory condition.

Gendarmerie
Recruits Are Tough, Ugly

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—"They get bigger, tougher—and uglier—every day."

The security officer at Elisabethville Airport looked distastefully at a group of young men clambering out of the plane that had just come in from Europe.

They were the latest additions to the Katanga gendarmerie, now recruiting men from all parts of the world to defend Katanga's independence.

These mercenaries are joined every day by new soldier-adventurers. Lured by high pay, they have come from the United States, Britain, France, Germany, Poland, Israel, South Africa, Rhodesia—and, of course, Belgium. Some of the better types become officers but the others, undisciplined, untidy, rowdy and ruthless have joined a group known as "Les Affreux" (The Frightfuls).

The Frightfuls swagger—sometimes stagger—around town with revolvers slung low from the webbing of their camouflaged paratrooper smocks. They are usually unshaven, have cropped heads or long oily hair, and sport bushy moustaches. You can find them in any bar—usually drunk.

When the Belgian army stationed in Katanga withdrew following independence, President Moise Tshombe's government had little left in the way of a defense force. A few Belgian officers and men volunteered to join the new Katanga gendarmerie and, after sifting carefully through the African remnants of the old mutinous Force Publique, began forming a new army.

Their work was speeded, first by the threat of invasion by the pro-Lumumba Congo national army, and then by a Baluba rebellion.

As an experiment, a combat group was organized without any definite mission except to keep order and "make an impression" on rebels and invaders. It consisted of a few Belgian officers, warrant officers, a handful of African soldiers and European "other ranks."

Then it was decided to recruit as many whites as possible for similar groups and Defense Minister Joseph Yav went to Europe to find "technical advisers." Overnight Elisabethville seemed to be filled with a new foreign legion.

The volunteers, who are joined by new members daily, earn from $400 to $840 a month, depending on rank and the amount of time they spend fighting in the bush. They disappear for about three weeks to a month and then return to the bars of Elisabethville dirtier, smellier, tougher—and drunker.
